6. Definitions

Direct discrimination

- Direct discrimination occurs when someone is treated less favourably in relation to any of the protected characteristics.

Indirect discrimination

- Indirect discrimination is a discrete type of discrimination that involves a policy, rule or procedure that is applied to everyone in a certain area but, ultimately, puts some individuals or groups at a disadvantage. Just like direct discrimination, indirect discrimination can be posed as a formal or informal rule, practice or policy that may control behaviour or set standards in the workplace.

Discrimination by association

- Discrimination by association is direct discrimination against someone because they associate with another person who possesses protected characteristics. Perceptive discrimination is direct discrimination against an individual because others think they possess a particular protected characteristic. It applies even if the person does not actually possess that characteristic.

Harassment

- Harassment is recognised and means that employees will be able to complain with regards to behaviour that they find offensive, even if it is not directed at them, and the complainant need not possess the relevant characteristics themselves.

Bullying

- Bullying is not natural behaviour and should not be seen as such. It typically can be when someone uses superior strength or influence to intimidate.

Victimisation

- Victimisation is the action of singling someone out for cruel or unjust treatment.
- All matters of discrimination, bullying and harassment will be dealt with effectively and efficiently, using the following processes where applicable:
  1. Complaints Procedure
  2. Grievance Procedure
  3. Anti-Bullying and Harassment Policy

7. Implementation

- The Senior Management Team carries the ultimate responsibility, under law, for ensuring that JLMS Management meets the requirements of equality legislation.
- All colleagues have the responsibility to uphold the policy, comply with the law and support the company in fulfilling its duties and commitments.

This policy will be reviewed annually on the date given at the start of this document
